

Three Planes Are to Attempt Atlantic Flight To-morrow

SATISFACTORY CROWDS AT WILLOWS EXHIBITION; TO-DAY IS CITIZENS' DAY

Visitors Witness Noteworthy Parade of Canadian Livestock; Trotting and Racing Programme and Jumping Events Are Watched With Interest; Judging is Now Nearly Completed.

Satisfaction is expressed by officials of the Victoria Fall Fair at the Willows at the numbers which have passed through the gates since the fair opened and at the auspicious start up to 2 o'clock to-day for Citizens' Day when it is anticipated that the number will reach the five or six thousand mark. Nearly three thousand people have paid their entrance fees to the grounds since the opening day and in addition nearly 1000 people passed through the wickets up to noon to-day.

BAND CONCERTS
A programme crowded with attractions was put on to-day winding up with a band concert, building by the Fifth Regiment Band and orchestral concerts in the home products building starting at 7.30 o'clock. The stock parade reserved for citizens day was the main attraction this afternoon starting at 3 o'clock and the big audience which lined the grandstand viewed one of the greatest processions of Canadian cattle seen at a show in British Columbia. Six flat and trotting races were also staged and considerable interest was also centered at the keen fight for honors in the Victoria horseman and Peter Welch of Calgary, two competitors in the jumping horse classes.

The Victoria Derby for Canadian bred horses was outstanding among the racing. The Welsh family are also giving exhibitions of riding and Roman races daily now in addition to the extended programme of the racing programme to six races a day. In view of the good attendance at the fair the midway has been again enlarged and a number of new concessions have been thrown open since the opening day. A system of spotlights to light up the fair ground at night has been installed.

STOCK AWARDS
First awards in the stock section were announced to-day—R. Duncan, of Eburne, carried off the prize offered by the Clydesdale Association of Canada for the best Clydesdale stallion, Blair Brothers of Stevenson showed the best Clydesdale female. (Concluded on page 2.)

PRINCE WILL SAIL FROM ENGLAND FOR NEWARK AUG. 23

Heir to the British Throne Will See Polo Matches on Long Island
Afterwards Will Proceed Straight to His Ranch in Alberta Province

London, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press Cable)—The Prince of Wales returned to London last night after having spent a few days at Deauville, France, where he was chiefly occupied playing polo. An incident occurred at Deauville, the doorman at the Casino refusing admission to the Prince, whom he did not recognize as the heir-apparent to the British throne. The mistake was quickly rectified, however, and the Prince seemed to enjoy the joke.

TO SAIL SATURDAY
The Prince will sail on the liner Berengaria on Saturday, August 23, in accordance with the plans arranged some time ago in connection with his visit to the United States and his longer sojourn at his ranch in Alberta, and he will occupy the suite on the ship formerly used by the ex-Kaiser, who was fond of cruising around in this vessel, known as the Empress, particularly off the shores of the small nations of Europe.

During the voyage across the Atlantic the Prince will breakfast alone each morning, but otherwise he will mix freely with the other passengers. (Concluded on page 2.)

SOUTH AFRICA NOT SUPPORTING EMPIRE FAIR EXTENSION

London, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press Cable)—Commenting on a report from Cape Town that the Government of South Africa had decided not to continue its exhibits at Wembley next year if the British Empire Exhibition should be open again in 1925, a South African authority in London says this is probably due to the fact that the South African Government is hard up and cannot afford to spend the money that would be required for a second year of the exhibition. South Africa not being in as good financial position as Canada or Australia.

WILL SPEAK HERE LATE IN SEPTEMBER; PREMIER KING

PRIME MINISTER OF CANADA COMING

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Will Speak in City

Date Will be at End of Month of September

After an interval of four years Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, will again visit this city. Political friends here have been advised to-day that Mr. King will include this city in his western itinerary, and may be expected to arrive about the end of next month.

The present head of the Canadian Government, who was then leader of the Opposition, conducted a political tour in 1920, during which time he spoke at a large gathering at the arena. He was accompanied by the late W. C. Kennedy, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, and William Duff, of Lunenburg.

Much has happened in the West since that time, and his Government has survived three sessions in spite of its handicap in starting its career with a bare majority of the Lower House. In view of the fact that an appeal to the country cannot be long delayed, great interest attaches to the impending visit.

Arrangements will be made for a public meeting as soon as definite date has been received from the Prime Minister.

U.S. SCIENTISTS TO LISTEN FOR MARS WIRELESS

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 20.—Scientists in the United States are to "listen in" from Thursday to Saturday of this week for possible wireless signals from the theoretical inhabitants of Mars, it was learned here.

The Argentine Foreign Office publishes a communication from Ambassador Puyredon in Washington, saying that "Astronomer Todd," presumably Professor David Todd of Amherst, has requested that countries having high powered wireless stations order them to remain silent for certain periods on these days in order that any signals may be detected.

DARK AREAS ON MARS ARE BELIEVED BY ASTRONOMERS TO BE VEGETATION AREAS

Flagstaff, Ariz., Aug. 20.—Next October, rather than the current week, during which Mars will approach the earth to a greater degree than in the past several hundred years, will produce the greatest results for science, in the view of Earl Sillpher, photographic expert at the Lowell Observatory here, where Mars is under almost continuous study. Dr. Sillpher predicts that regular observations will be revealing to scientists two months hence.

FORTY-ONE KILLED IN TURKESTAN BY EARTH TREMORS

London, Aug. 20.—An earthquake near Osh, in the province of Semirachens, Russian Turkestan, caused the deaths of forty-one persons in three villages and rendered 8,000 people homeless, says a dispatch from Allahabad, India. More than 4,000 houses were destroyed.

IN NAPLES FIFTY FASCIST POLICEMEN BEING ARRESTED

Naples, Aug. 20.—The Government has ordered a rigorous inquiry into the disturbances here Sunday, when an attempt by the police to prevent a meeting of loyal opposition adherents resulted in the killing of two persons and the injuring of sixteen.

The arrest has been ordered, it is understood, of fifty Fascist policemen charged with being implicated in the responsibility for the disorders.

JEWELRY ROBBERS IN BOSTON TOOK $150,000 IN LOOT

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—Diamonds and jewelry valued at $150,000 were stolen by four men who held up the clerks in the store of Carl H. Skinner, a diamond merchant, here to-day. One man remained in the gang's automobile and two covered the three clerks with revolvers, while the fourth picked up the jewelry cases which had just been removed from the safe.

TO TRY AGAIN IF U.S. AIRMEN FAIL

Stuart MacLaren Would Make Another Attempt to Encircle Earth

He and Companions Brought to Vancouver by Steamer Thiepval

Vancouver, Aug. 20.—To be first around the world in the air, the ambition which launched Major A. Stuart MacLaren and his party five months ago on their attempt to encircle the globe, is still the goal at which the daring aviator aims.

"Of course, it all depends upon the Americans," he commented as the Canadian Fisheries patrol steamer Thiepval dropped anchor off the Jericho Air Station this morning. "If they get around it's all up; the thing has been done."

When the sturdy little trawler left her anchor to-day she concluded a cruise which began on March 1.

REMAINS OF PLANE

Within a few minutes, under direction of Pilot W. H. Plenderleith, the crew of the Thiepval, assisted by men from Jericho, were at work lowering the hull of the ill-fated flying boat from its perch on the after-deck of the trawler into the water. The engine, which did not miss a beat in 14,000 miles of flying, was deposited in a dory and the remains of the tiny craft which met its doom in the stormy waters of the North Pacific were taken ashore to await shipment to England.

A GREAT TEST

It was a great test for the plane, declared Major MacLaren. Flying every day for months on end without the opportunity of having the craft gone over thoroughly was much more of a test than daily flights of regular commercial planes, overhauled at the end of each trip. Also the world fliers flew from seven to nine hours daily.

CAPT. ZVERSEVITCH IS CONDEMNED TO DEATH IN RUSSIA

Moscow, Aug. 20.—Captain Zversevitch, intimate friend and first aide-de-camp to General Semenov, at one time commander-in-chief of all the Russian armies, was recently condemned to death. He was charged with carrying on open warfare against the Soviets in the Trans-Baikal and Pramor districts since 1917.

WRECKING OF ARGENTINE AEROPLANE ENDS MAJOR PEDRO ZANNI'S FLIGHT

Above is a picture of the plane in which Pedro Zanni, Argentinian, flew from Amsterdam to Hanoi, French Indo-China. In taking off at Hanoi for Canton Zanni suffered an accident and his machine was badly damaged. This has ended his flight across Japan. He had already abandoned his plan to cross the North Pacific to this continent. When he left Amsterdam he hoped to fly around the world along the route chosen by Major MacLaren, British aviator.

MANY REBELS IN BRAZIL DROWNED IN PARANA RIVER

Buenos Aires, Aug. 20.—The Brazilian troops stationed on the banks of the River Parana sank a steamer carrying rebel forces proceeding from the port of Tibirica, according to official advices from Piraju forwarded by La Nacion's Santos correspondent. The boat went down after heavy firing and many of the rebels were drowned.

The entry on behalf of Saanich was organized by the South Saanich Farmers' Institute and the South Saanich Women's Institute, who also had valuable aid from the West Saanich Women's Institute and scores of generous residents of Saanich.

SPANIARDS CLAIM SUCCESS IN FIGHTING IN MOROCCAN AREA

Madrid, Aug. 20.—The Spanish operations against rebels at Agrau, in the eastern zone of Morocco, have been successfully terminated, says an official communique. The rebels are known to have suffered the loss of ninety-eight killed and thirty-six wounded.

The Man—
The Woman he Marries—
The Woman he would have Married?

Don't fail to read "The Surprising Sex," the thrilling serial by Alfred Barbour, commencing in the Times columns on Saturday, August 23.

U.S. AND ITALIAN AIRMEN HOPE TO REACH GREENLAND FROM ICELAND ON THURSDAY

American World Planes and Locatelli's Machine Put in Readiness for 825-mile Flight To-morrow; Zanni, Argentinian, Wrecked His Plane When Taking Off at Hanoi, French Indo-China.

Reykjavik, Aug. 20.—The United States round-the-world fliers and Lieut. Locatelli, Italian aviator, who will accompany them on their flight to the North American Continent, will take off on the long lap to Frederiksdaal, near Cape Farewell, South Greenland, at 3 a.m. to-morrow, it was decided to-day.

The decision was made this morning at a conference on board the cruiser Richmond between Rear-Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, commander of the round-the-world fliers, and Lieut. Locatelli.

From here to Frederiksdaal is 825 miles. It is estimated twelve hours will be required for the jump.

DELAYED BY GALE

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 20.—The United States round-the-world fliers had made all preparations to start this morning on their long and hazardous hop to Frederiksdaal, near Cape Farewell, South Greenland, but unfavorable weather conditions again forced them to abandon their intention. A gale delayed the arrival here of the United States cruiser Richmond, which is bringing spare parts with which the two machines can be repaired.

UNCERTAINTY UPSET PLAN

Realizing the probable delay in the arrival of the Richmond, Rear-Admiral Thomas P. Magruder had made preparations for sending the material with which to repair the planes to Reykjavik by means of the scout aeroplanes on board the cruiser, but the plan was abandoned because a heavy gale was blowing there this morning and because of uncertainty regarding the landing of the scout planes.

ZANNI'S FLIGHT ENDS

Tokio, Aug. 20.—Universal regret was expressed throughout Japan to-day when news was received here from Hanoi, French Indo-China, telling of the crash of the plane of Major Pedro Zanni, Argentine round-the-world flier, while he was taking off for Canton.

As Zanni's plane was put out of commission, it is believed he will make no further attempt to continue the flight. It had been already decided that he would not attempt to cross the Pacific.

ARRANGEMENTS NOT NEEDED

The information was received here just as Garcia Eriburi, Argentine Minister, had completed arrangements for the flight of Zanni across Japan. Through the ready co-operation of Japanese officials who aided in locating the same landing places prepared for Doisy, the French aviator, Zanni's landing fields would have been the best.

MAN KILLED AND SIX WERE HURT IN SMASH IN ONTARIO

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 20.—George Bowerman of Toronto was killed and six persons were injured, two seriously, when a car from Niagara Falls, was badly injured, colliding on the Dundas Highway.

Charles Thornton is in a serious condition in hospital.

MAN WILL TRY TO CROSS ATLANTIC IN SMALL SAILBOAT

New York, Aug. 20.—With Gibraltar as his destination, Demostri Sigeolakis, a Cretan seaman, next Sunday will embark upon a transatlantic voyage in a twenty-two-foot sailboat. His only means of making the trip, he says, is to experience the thrill of achievement.

PRICE OF FLOUR WILL BE FIXED IN FRANCE IF BILL ADOPTED BY UPPER HOUSE

Paris, Aug. 20 (Canadian Press Cable via Havas).—Notwithstanding a good harvest, the Council of Ministers and under-secretaries yesterday decided to submit to the Senate a bill for the fixing of the price of flour. The measure has already been adopted by the Chamber of Deputies. The Council also decided to increase the proportion of grain milled from seventy-five to seventy-eight per cent. This change, while not appreciably affecting the quality of bread, is expected to result in a fall of the present market price.

Discussion at the meeting showed that the high price of bread was due to the world prices affecting the importations of corn which are still necessary.

SCIENTISTS TO COME HERE IN TWO PARTIES

Famous British Astronomer to Speak on Second Evening

Canadian Club Luncheon on Tuesday to Visitors

Members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, who have been engaged in the annual meeting at Toronto, and are due in Winnipeg this evening on their way to the Coast, will come to Victoria next week in two parties.

One will arrive on the day boat on Monday, embarking immediately after the special train from the East reaches Vancouver, and the other will cross by the night steamer. Each party, however, will leave on the day steamer on Tuesday immediately after the Canadian Club luncheon at which Sir William Ashley, Vice-principal of Birmingham University, will deliver the address on behalf of the visitors.

ANOTHER LECTURE

Owing to the fact that Professor A. S. Eddington, Plumian Professor of Astronomy at Cambridge University, is on his way to California, and therefore not returning with the party, the public of Victoria is to have the opportunity to hear him on Tuesday evening. Dr. Eddington has broken new ground at Toronto by his scholarly investigation into the explanation how heat and light pass from one star into another, and how the energy comes on to people on this world. He has laid down the theory that the mass of a star is proportional to its absolute magnitude, or if all the stars were at equal distance from the earth the radiation therefrom would be proportional to the amount of matter in them, and be independent of their temperature.

ANOTHER LECTURE

As is the custom in the cities where these annual gatherings are held, there are public gatherings held for (Concluded on page 2.)

L. C. MASON IS NOW BACK IN TORONTO

Offers Attorney-General Aid in Provincial Bond Deal Prosecutions

Returned to Ontario From Cleveland, Where He Had Been Living

Toronto, Aug. 20.—L. C. Mason, who departed from Toronto last March following the investigation before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature, an alleged payment to himself and others of a commission on the sale of provincial bonds, returned to the city yesterday, and, it is understood, has announced his willingness to give the Attorney-General any aid in his power in the prosecution of those charged with wrongdoing.

Mason and Charles A. Matthews Jr., former Deputy Provincial Treasurer, who was brought back from California this week, left the city about the same time after Mr. Matthews had been named as one of those who received part of the commission. Mr. Mason is married to Matthews's stepdaughter.

Mason came to Toronto this morning from Cleveland, where he had been living and working for a trust company for four months.

SEES SUPER-POWER BRING REVOLUTION IN ENGLISH INDUSTRY

plained. What he sees as a result of this power development and electrification of England is something in the nature of a second industrial revolution, accompanied by a trade and industrial revival.

Thirty-six nations attended the Wenlock conference. Which dealt with many phases of the power question, operation, financing, equipment, coal and oil fuel. Mr. Cleveland, who is fostering the development of B.C.'s water resources. He is making a report to Mr. Pattullo on developments at the conference and their importance to B.C.—Power plants in Norway and Sweden were also visited to get the latest ideas for water power and pulp industry development for B.C.

INDUSTRIAL RACE

Mr. Cleveland, pending his report to Mr. Pattullo, asserted that the proceedings of the conference demonstrated the tremendous advantage in the industrial race which countries have, that are well supplied with water power and emphasized the fact that countries possessing water power such as B.C. are of increasing importance industrially.

"In Europe a tremendous amount of money and skill is being spent in development of water power and the conference showed how eager countries with small water power resources are to develop them to the limit," Mr. Cleveland said.

"As for B.C., we know what our power can do if we only get the people here who will go into industries."

plained. What he sees as a result of this power development and electrification of England is something in the nature of a second industrial revolution, accompanied by a trade and industrial revival.

Thirty-six nations attended the Wenlock conference. Which dealt with many phases of the power question, operation, financing, equipment, coal and oil fuel. Mr. Cleveland, who is fostering the development of B.C.'s water resources. He is making a report to Mr. Pattullo on developments at the conference and their importance to B.C.—Power plants in Norway and Sweden were also visited to get the latest ideas for water power and pulp industry development for B.C.

INDUSTRIAL RACE

Mr. Cleveland, pending his report to Mr. Pattullo, asserted that the proceedings of the conference demonstrated the tremendous advantage in the industrial race which countries have, that are well supplied with water power and emphasized the fact that countries possessing water power such as B.C. are of increasing importance industrially.

"In Europe a tremendous amount of money and skill is being spent in development of water power and the conference showed how eager countries with small water power resources are to develop them to the limit," Mr. Cleveland said.

"As for B.C., we know what our power can do if we only get the people here who will go into industries."

Major MacLaren stated he had never in his life experienced such continued bad weather. Almost continuous adverse conditions were met with from the very start. Along the China coast they flew through rain so dense that it was as bad as fog for visibility. They made nine jumps in the North Pacific after they left

Japan, and every day was through solid fog.

FLEW ABOVE FOG

"We flew above the fog at times, but that didn't make much difference," he said. "We had to come down sometimes, and landing in a fog is dangerous business. Even above the fog we could not see anything. It was always a question whether we should go farther in the fog than would allow us to return to our starting point for more fuel. Several times we went ahead so far that we could not have got back with the fuel we had. If we had not been able to find our next depot the jig would have been up."

THIEFVAL'S AID

"If our accident had happened at Dutch Harbor or some more frequent port we could have had another plane shipped to us from Montreal and continued," he said, "but only for the Thiefval we should have had to wait for a whole year to get away from Nikolski, and we could not get our new boat out there any sooner."

BROUGHT STOWAWAY

The Thiefval brought home several souvenirs of her cruise. Chief of these was a stowaway who climbed aboard mysteriously at Petropolsk in Kamchatka. He is Dan Damascov, an anti-Bolshevik Russian, who claims to have his first papers in the United States. At all events he speaks a little English, and explained that he had gone to Kamchatka to visit his mother, but the Bolsheviks had set on him and taken away his money and papers.

While the Thiefval was at sea Captain Beech put the stowaway to work as a member of the crew, but at Prince Rupert he was kept a prisoner. He has been turned over to the immigration authorities here, and the truth of his story is to be checked up.

TWO CUBS ABOARD

Other souvenirs are two bear cubs, one a brown bear picked up at Hakodate, Japan, and the other a black bear captured at Petropolsk.

"How does it feel to be back in Vancouver?"

"That's easily answered," said Major MacLaren. "I spent some of the happiest days of my life here. Of course I was flat broke most of the time, but I know no country in which one came home a better time with less money than in British Columbia."

"I landed here with rather less than $25 in my pockets and no job. That was in 1911. I had not been a starting success as a budding business man in England and my people thought I should probably be the very thing for the West, so I came."

"I got a job as a timekeeper and enjoyed every minute of it."

CONTRAST IS GREAT

"The contrast of my first arrival here thirteen years ago and the wonderful welcome I am now receiving here—well, it's rather overwhelming, you know."

Major MacLaren was warned that he would receive a tremendous ovation on arriving at Pier D.

"It's very kind of everyone," he said, "but how I do detest it. It's wonderful to me that, since we did not make the grade, so to speak, the people here still take any interest in us."

APPRECIATES AID

"I feel I cannot say enough in appreciation of the splendid aid Canada has given us. Without her aid and the fine assistance of the Thiefval it is hardly likely we should be here."

"The warmth of our welcome here only adds to the obligations of myself and my companions to the Dominion."

Prohibition Party In Ontario is Now Preparing For Vote

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Prohibition forces in Ontario are already active in anticipation of the coming plebiscite. Rev. J. Daily, secretary of the Ontario Prohibition Union, is shaping plans for a strenuous campaign. Committees representing the prohibition organization of the province have also been working. The campaign committee has secured as the leader of the plebiscite committee Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore of the local Service Department of the Methodist Church. He will at once take up the work in a separate office and with full relief from other duties.

ASIATIC SEGREGATION PLAN IN SOUTH AFRICA

Cape Town, Aug. 20.—A resolution was moved in the House of Assembly yesterday advocating segregation of the Asiatics in the urban areas of Natal and the Transvaal and the passing of legislation to enforce a cessation of the issuance of trading licenses to Asiatics. Dr. D. F. Malan, Minister of the Interior, in accepting the motion, indicated that South Africa, with a complicated and active problem had an Asiatic population far out-numbering the combined Asiatics of the other Dominions. He intimated that it was the Government's intention to double the present bonus of £5 paid to Indians who voluntarily returned to their own countries. He also mentioned that of the 161,000 Asiatics of the Union of South Africa 102,000 were born in it.

Man Killed When Plane Fell; Two Companions Hurt

Amityville, N.Y., Aug. 20.—David Morris, thirty-five, of Youngstown, Ohio, was killed and Wayne Green, twenty-seven, a professional pilot, and Arthur Berry, twenty-six, both of Brooklyn, were injured, the latter seriously, when a five-passenger biplane, in which they were flying went into a nose dive while 2,000 feet above the landing field here last night. The plane caught fire as it struck and only the presence of the Lindenhurst fire department, practising on the field for a tournament, prevented the aviators and their machine from being consumed.

URGE BUILDING OF HUDSON BAY LINE

Members of On-to-the-Bay Association Meets in Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Aug. 20. (Canadian Press)—The feasibility of the Hudson Bay Railway is well known at Ottawa and with its operation of vital importance to agricultural communities of the prairies, Saskatchewan is prepared to co-operate in continuing the campaign for completion of the route, declared J. R. Wilson of Saskatoon, president of the On-to-the-Bay Association, speaking at a luncheon of the organization here.

"Opposition to the completion of the railway is not well founded, and from a colonization point of view, with the development of the resources of the country, the line is justified," added Mr. Wilson.

MADE TRIP OVER LINE

Col. F. J. James of Regina, president of the Southern Saskatchewan branch, and O. D. Hill of Melfort, a vice-president of the association, dealt with a recent trip they had made over the line. They found conditions favorable for settlement, whom were making progress in the area from The Pas to Kettle Rapids, 332 miles distant. Mr. Hill was favorably impressed with the work that had been completed at Port Nelson and declared road conditions, etc., were good for completion of the route.

HARD TIMES FOR LIQUOR SMUGGLERS

Increased Measures by Officials Along Manitoba-Minnesota Border

Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—In an effort to curb the activities of traffickers engaged in smuggling liquor from Manitoba across the international boundary, the joint Minnesota-Manitoba border patrol will swing into action on September 1.

The border patrol will concentrate its attention on Crookston, Fargo, Moorhead, Grand Forks and surrounding territory. The Canadian section will survey all possible sources of supply on this side of the line, working in co-operation with the United States federal and state authorities.

PRINCE TO SAIL FROM ENGLAND FOR NEW YORK AUG. 23

The steamship was booked up months ago in the ordinary course of the rush of tourists for return passages, so those who have sought to obtain berths on the ship since it became known that the Prince of Wales was to be a passenger on the voyage have been disappointed.

The Prince is anxious to reach his ranch at the earliest possible moment and his stay on Long Island, where he will witness the international polo matches between teams representing Britain and the United States, will positively be his only stop on his way to America.

NO PUBLIC FUNCTIONS

What he may do on the return

Journey is as yet undecided, although it is certain he will avoid any public functions. Perhaps the Prince will visit Jasper Park, Alberta, and during the time he is holidaying at his ranch he will likely spend a week-end at Banff.

The Canadian Press has authority for stating that the Prince and his suite appreciated and are extremely gratified by the privacy which attended his visit to Canada last year and the Prince is looking forward to a similar privacy on his forthcoming visit. "The Prince's ranch is real retreat for him and everybody he met both in the vicinity of the ranch and at Banff was most kind and considerate of him," declared the authorities to-day.

Recent dispatches from Washington stated the Prince of Wales would call on President Coolidge before leaving the United States for his Alberta ranch and would be entertained at a private luncheon at the White House and later the Cabinet members and their wives would be presented to him. The dispatch intimated that for the purpose of the call on the President the Prince would temporarily take his official title instead of that of Lord Renfrew, under which he will be known while in Canada, but the above indicates that the Prince will travel incognito throughout his journey to Alberta and will make no other stop in the United States but on Long Island.

EXPECTS U.S. TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET

That Development Will Come in Time, Says Christian Rakovsky

Moscow, Aug. 20.—Discussing the influence on the United States of the Anglo-Russian alliance, Christian Rakovsky, the Russian Charge d'Affaires in London, who signed the treaty, said:

"The United States is at present the most conservative capitalist country. Under the mask of defending democratic principles it protects the interests of the big American capitalists. America strives to place Europe under its economic tutelage. Russia's social regime presents for the United States capitalists the greatest obstacle in establishing their authority over the European and Asiatic continents."

In the opinion of M. Rakovsky, the United States will ultimately be compelled to recognize Soviet Russia, as he contends, there are signs of big changes in the international situation. He cites the appearance of the "Third Party" as furnishing the best proof that the United States has been forced out of the social equilibrium which hitherto has served as a guarantee of her conservatism.

ON WAY TO SESSION OF ADVENTISTS

Art Expert is Pleased With Progress in Japan

Pastor L. H. Evans, vice-president of the conference of Seventh Day Adventists and chairman of the Far Eastern division of that denomination, with his wife, arrived in Shanghai, China, yesterday through Victoria, en route to Des Moines, Iowa, to attend the biennial council Seventh Day Adventists.

Monsieur H. D'Oleant, organizer and director of the French contemporary art exhibition, Tokyo and Osaka, Japan, is en route to Paris via New York. Five hundred paintings, marbles, pastels and glass works, representing the finest in French art to-day are now being shown in Japan as part of the world wide propaganda programme being carried out on behalf of French art. In Japan the exhibit is insured for over $2,000,000.

"I consider the Japanese the most artistic people in the world," Monsieur D'Oleant said. "The tourist who judges Japanese art from the bazaars and curio shops is making a grave mistake. Those who take time to visit the ancient capital of Nara see the most beautiful Buddhist sculpture in the world and the youth of Japan at the present time is evincing more interest in art than the young people of any other country."

MUTUAL ASSISTANCE TREATY REJECTED

Attitude of Australia and Jugo-Slavia Similar to Britain's

Geneva, Aug. 20.—Jugo-Slavia and Australia have joined Great Britain, Germany, the United States, Russia and other states in rejecting the Treaty of Mutual Assistance provisionally framed as a means of securing a reduction of armaments. Portugal has notified the League of Nations that it accepts the pact in principle, but considers the guarantees afforded in case of aggression inadequate. It deems the definition of what constitutes aggressiveness insufficiently clear.

AUSTRALIA'S ATTITUDE

Australia finds that no nation would be obliged to come to her assistance if she were attacked, nor would Australia be obliged to assist anybody. Australia dislikes the regional alliance feature and doubts whether the Council could effectually determine which state was the aggressor within the four days mentioned in the treaty.

SOLUTION NEEDED

Jugo-Slavia is of the opinion that a general reduction of armaments is "impossible" unless some practical solution is found of the problem of assistance. Mutual assistance should be absolute, unconditional and immediate, according to Jugo-Slavia, and be founded on the maintenance of the status quo. But unfortunately these requirements, Jugo-Slavia contends, are not met by the draft of the pact under which the small powers, especially, could be invaded and ravaged before military assistance was forthcoming. Hence Jugo-Slavia feels it cannot trust its safety to the guarantees provided by the draft.

PREMIER SPEAKS OF REFORM OF SENATE

King Addresses Audience at Rondeau, Ontario; Graham and Murdoch Heard

Rondeau, Ont., Aug. 20.—Premier King, Hon. G. P. Graham and Hon. James Murdoch addressed a large gathering here yesterday afternoon out-of-doors, the event being the second of a series of gatherings of the kind throughout the province.

The Prime Minister's address was in substance similar to that at Markham on Saturday.

Dealing with what it is proposed to do in the way of Senate reform, he said:

"In our efforts to secure the will of the people through the elected Chamber, we intend to proceed with all regard to the aims the framers had in mind in establishing the second Chamber. It has its duties and obligations in relation to the rights of the different provinces and any step we take will be with due regard to what the Fathers of Confederation had in mind when they established the Senate as one of the bodies to be concerned with legislation."

ACTION EXPECTED

"But I do believe the people will expect a Liberal Government to see that the machinery of government is so arranged as to make it possible the will of the people will prevail in those great measures which are of vast concern to the people as a whole."

"The Senate has its place in the constitution of the country. I believe as the franchise becomes wider and the questions with which we have to deal become more and more questions affecting large principles and the ministry of government becomes more and more democratic, there is possibility of a special reason in keeping the second Chamber, but I think it is all important that in regard to certain classes of measures, which have to do with reforms, it is essential means should be found of preventing the second Chamber from blocking the will of the people."

BRITISH SYSTEM

"We intend to see that the second Chamber is not made an instrument for defeating the will of the people. The British people, who are as progressive as any, came to the conclusion that that was not the way government should be carried on and resolved to amend the constitution and put through a reform, which today is part of their established order of government, by which, after a measure has been approved by the Commons on more than two occasions, it becomes law, even if defeated in the second Chamber."

MEMBERS' PAY

At the close of Mr. King's address a man in the audience submitted a question as to why the sessional indemnities had undergone no change. "I would be glad to answer that, whether or not the amount of the indemnity was cut down," said Mr. King, "but I feel the result would be that men of wealth and means would be the ones who would run and the great body of the people who need to be represented in Parliament by men who understand the needs of the people would find themselves without the kind of representation they want."

DISCUSS EXTENSION OF EMPIRE TRADE

Unionists of Great Britain Have Formed Empire Development Branch

London, Aug. 20. (Canadian Press cable)—The Unionist Party having formed an Empire Development Branch, is now seeking to spread the knowledge of its aims among the British electors. The party invites voluntary services from those having first-hand knowledge of the Dominions to spread the meaning of Empire trade and imperial preference among the people here and also welcome any assistance from overseas.

Whether such help will be forthcoming is a matter of uncertainty. Several Canadians, more or less prominent, visiting here this summer have been sought to appear on the platform, but practically all, for fairly obvious reasons, have declined.

W. Graham, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, when asked if he would support a tariff in certain circumstances, replied that the Socialist Party, generally speaking, was free trade in sentiment, but he hoped its members were not slaves to the doctrine. Personally he thought a tariff more or less possible in certain spheres. He added that a powerful tariff party existed on the Socialist benches, where all true moderation resided.

NATIVE AMERICANS IMPROVING POSITION

Population in 2,100 Will be More Distinctly American Than Now

That is Opinion of Dr. R. Pearl After Study of United States Figures

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—Native American stock in the United States is on the increase and the indications are that the maximum population of this country in the future, which he estimates at 197,274,000 in 2100, will be made up of 19,724,000 native-born Americans and 177,550,000 foreign-born. According to the studies in human biology made by Dr. Raymond Pearl, professor of biometry in the School of Hygiene and the Medical School of Johns Hopkins University.

FROM 1915 TO 1921

Pearl's studies dealing with the vitality of native and foreign-born Americans are based on studies of the birth and death figures from registration states during the period from 1915 to 1921 inclusive. They show that the native-born Americans whose birthrate was practically equal to death rate in 1915, rose to 142 births to 100 deaths in 1921. In 1915 foreign-born mothers were giving birth to 267 children to every 100 deaths among the foreign-born, but in 1921 the proportion of births had fallen to 237.

This shows that the foreign-born birthrate, though still the lower, is on the decline, while the native birthrate is increasing.

CONSTANTLY IMPROVING

"Constantly improving conditions of public health," says Dr. Pearl, "and their relation to the mortality returns have taken away any force that might at some time possibly have been thought to attach to the 'race suicide' argument against the general falling birthrate. Any population or any group that year by year is producing more than its replacement for each death is not on the high road to extinction."

Forged Telegram Story of Great War

Vienna, Aug. 20.—A forged telegram induced Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary to declare war against Serbia in July 1914, according to a statement by Colonel Seliger, who at the time was began was chief of the press bureau of the Vienna War Office, published in The Vienna Tagblatt.

Colonel Seliger says a telephone message to the press bureau reported that Francis Joseph at last had signed the war declaration, but that he had been persuaded to do so only after great difficulty.

The actual signing did not take place, asserts the writer, until Count Berchtold, Austrian Foreign Minister, showed the Emperor a telegram which stated Serbians had raided Bosnian territory and in the fighting some 400 soldiers had been killed.

Colonel Seliger quotes the Emperor as saying: "If so much blood has already been spilled, then war is unavoidable." The very next day, says the writer, Count Kinsky, the famous courier, Informed the press bureau chief the telegram was a forgery and that actually there had been but four casualties in the fighting along the Bosnian frontier.

Just who it was who forged the telegram is not stated.

CHARGE IN SEATTLE AGAINST GASPARAC

Officials Say Five Czecho-Slovaks to be Deported

Seattle, Aug. 20.—Matia Gasparac, alleged principal in a plot to bring four Czecho-Slovakians into the United States illegally, has been formally charged with smuggling aliens in complaint filed before United States Commissioner P. S. Elliott, Center Market, Anton Andjar, Ivan Zager and Jacob Tomac, said by immigration officials to have admitted paying Gasparac $20 each to be escorted across the Canadian border near Sumas, are held in the immigration station as witnesses.

Gasparac's bond was fixed at $1,000, which he was unable to furnish. The four aliens and Gasparac as well, who lives in Sedro-Wooley, will be deported eventually, immigration officials said.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

NOT always does the presidential election in the United States produce candidates who are prominent in the public life of the country. On not a few occasions the complicated and tedious method of nomination has been responsible for the defeat of the favorites and the selection of compromise candidates. At the recent Democratic convention, however, while history repeated itself in this respect, the "dark horse" who landed the reward may lay claim to an international as well as a national reputation. Thus in the contest of next November the people of the neighboring republic will have to choose between two statesmen whose careers have been fashioned in a wider school of public affairs than, for instance, the career of either the late President Harding—a man of fine character who merited the honor which his country conferred upon him—or his Democratic opponent.

President Coolidge had established a reputation for himself before the intervention of Providence placed him at the helm of the ship of state. In the period which has elapsed since then his statesmanship has withstood more than one exacting test. His excellent record, therefore, as well as the prestige of office, should stand him in good stead at the polls. In the case of John W. Davis, who will carry the Democratic flag during the contest, his talents brought him prominently before the public on numerous occasions, culminating in his appointment as ambassador to Britain.

With two such outstanding personalities to choose between it may be that strict party lines will be less a factor in determining the choice of the individual voter than it was four years ago. At that time the country was enjoying the fruits of immediate post war prosperity. It was not a simple matter to advocate a wider interest in foreign affairs with success. The European situation was altogether too complex to encourage American assistance in solving Old World problems. Never was there a more opportune time to advocate tariff increases. In fact this appeal, taken in conjunction with a general belief in the policy of complete isolation, was almost irresistible. Public sentiment had tired of Wilsonian ideas and the Republicans won the day.

Two years afterwards changing conditions at home and abroad had produced a new sentiment. Closing the door in the face of the outside trader, backing away from war-stricken Europe—a great purchaser of American goods—overloading the economic structure with idle gold, had not only not preserved the prosperous condition which looked permanent two years before, but had begun to limit profitable production, especially in agriculture. The results of the congressional elections disclosed that the electorate had begun to realize how impossible it was for the United States to retain surplus gold and goods and expect times to remain good. This is the condition which exists to-day and one of the most formidable ghosts at the Republican feast for the next few months will be the "ghost of export trade depression—an unfortunate incubus for a President about to ask for endorsement by the electorate.

Mr. Davis, on the other hand, will reap the benefit of the obvious change of view. The partial conversion of the present Administration to the foreign policy of the late President Wilson—essentially gradual though it may be—as demonstrated by the manner in which the United States has shared the successful effort which the Allies have just made to settle the reparations question, will not be lost upon the voter who is gradually realizing, even against his traditional political will, that his country can not virtually ignore the rest of the world in a political sense, erect high tariff walls, and escape the inevitable economic consequences. In this there is a compelling argument, an argument which will not down.

Canada, of course, is vitally interested in the forthcoming election. The United States is her best market and upon its tariff policy depends to a very considerable extent the volume of her export trade.

HOW IT BEGAN

ALDERMAN TODD told the directors of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday that some years ago when he and other officers of the Victoria Publicity Bureau began to agitate for a motor car ferry between Vancouver Island and the mainland they could not get a shipping man to see any possibility of success in such a venture. In fact, they were told that no ferry would pay, that it would be a mere waste of money which would do the Island more harm than good. Thereupon he and his colleagues went to Seattle and by offering certain financial guarantees induced a company to operate two old improvised ferry boats between Anacortes and Sidney. The project was a big success from the start, and we see the result of the initiative and foresight of the Publicity Bureau in the development of several more ferry services and the rapidly growing motor tourist travel to Victoria. The progressiveness of the Victoria Publicity Bureau has brought to Victoria millions of dollars which otherwise never would have come here, but it had to overcome an incredible amount of local opposition to create these conditions. The best investment Victoria ever has made is the expenditure directed by the Victoria Publicity Bureau, a body composed of public-spirited citizens who are giving their time and energy to the work of the organization without remuneration.

STORM IN A TEACUP

POLITICAL France is boiling over with excitement because Premier MacDonald has written to Premier Herriot suggesting that the evacuation of the Ruhr might be more speedy than the terms of the recent agreement requires.

Some journalists call it blackmail; others interpret it as treachery of the worst kind; not a few look upon it as a back-handed trick. But these editorial outbursts are never serious. The French press is exceedingly temperamental. It rises from the depths of despair to great heights of jubilation in an hour or so.

The less excitable element in France will merely regard Mr. MacDonald's letter as an emphasis of his desire to see the Dawes plan succeed—a desire that France shall even go a little further than the trodden mile in her own interest.

OFFICES OF PROFIT

IN its effort to support an argument that in the event of a change in the Premiership of British Columbia there must be a re-election of ministers of an Executive Council which might come into being, the Colonist relies on the well-known authority of Todd. In this instance, however, it is surprising to find Todd quoted on British practice instead of Todd on Canadian practice.

The late Mr. Todd as a youth began a personal acquaintance with Canadian parliamentary procedure, and his work, "Parliamentary Government in British Colonies," is universally accepted as an authority on practice in the Dominions. He devotes a whole chapter of that volume to the practice with regard to Cabinet organization and the duties of Executive Councilors to their constituents.

Few people are aware that in 1866 in Queensland a cabinet discharged its functions in the House without resigning, acting as Executive Councilors, the ministers giving up their seats later to seek re-election by their constituents when the urgent business of the House was done. This was a state in which resignation was incumbent on acceptance of an office of profit, but in a number of the Australian and South African legislatures no resignation is necessary.

Before the Act of 1867 cleared up the situation in the Old Country, Canada by an Act in 1853 had decided that an exchange of portfolios by a cabinet minister who had been elected since taking office entailed no subsequent by-election. In 1891, Todd points out, Sir John Abbott succeeded the previous Premier, Sir John Macdonald, whose ministry had been dissolved by the death of its head, without any by-election, and its ministers resumed their portfolios without any new by-elections.

That is perhaps the strongest Canadian precedent indicating that the dissolution of a cabinet by the removal of its head does not entail by-elections, except where men who were previously not members of the executive council are sworn in. When a minister has been sworn in and has been re-elected he becomes de facto a minister, and if he refuses to retire on the resignation of the government of which he is a member, ample provision is set up for the executive head of that government to remove him.

This year's Fall Fair is a triumph of organization and a tribute to local enterprise. The public should support it liberally.

Opposition forces which are trying to defeat Premier Oliver at Nelson are proving the truth of the old adage that politics makes strange bedfellows.

By a vote of 55 to 47 Premier MacDonald was voted back into the Moray Golf Club; but it was not a two-thirds vote, so he will still remain on the outside. The Prime Minister ought to take the final decision as a compliment; he would certainly be out of place with snobs.

CURING STONE THROWING

From The Saskatoon Star

A lad in a western town had a mania for throwing stones through windows. Finally he landed in the juvenile court. The judge sentenced him to throw 2,000 stones, under the eye of a policeman. When last heard from, the boy wouldn't throw a stone for pay.

SENATE AND C.N.R.

From The Border Cities Star

The only thing that Canada can ask of the Senate is that the members of that body regard the affairs of the National lines aside from politics, and solely from the point of view of economics. They should remember that Canada is not in the railroad business from choice, but from necessity, and that the big job is to make the roads pay. If building new branches will add to the revenue, they should be constructed.

JUST ONE I'LL REMEMBER

My heart holds the morning—
The fields were an still.
A flock of sheep wandered
From over the hill.

All robbed of their fleeces
And shorn of their grace,
Ewe, ram and wether
Passed down with sad pace.

So silent and sober—
Dumb children of fate—
Down from a green hill
And out through a gate.

Out through a grey gate
To sleep in a grave—
Just one I'll remember
Of all the long drove.

Just one I'll remember—
I'm glad that they keep
A little black lamb
In a flock of white sheep.

Dr. Frank Crane on
"A Woman's Best Age"

(Copyright)

BALZAC is supposed to have said that the dangerous age of a woman is thirty-five. Just exactly what he meant by dangerous we do not know, but there is no doubt that a woman is at her best around thirty-five. Before that time she is too cock-sure. She knows too much of life, also too little.

The loss of her ideals is still a surprise to her, and means too much, and her experience may have made her a little bitter.

Beyond the age of thirty-five a woman is apt to get matronly.

The ideal age of a woman, therefore, is about thirty-five. Very many women who have had little charm as young girls have suddenly become the most delightful persons in early middle age. They have learned to understand men by that time and expect less of life than younger women. They usually dress very well and are easily pleased.

They are not so temperamental nor so easily disappointed. They understand that they can be happy once in a while without being happy all the time.

About thirty-five a woman is almost always an admirable hostess; she has traveled, she has read and she has met people and, therefore, she makes an excellent companion. She stimulates a man to his best, but she is also a rest to him and has come to find out that busy men seek from women the benediction of rest perhaps more than any other quality.

She is not so conscious of her youth and hence has a becoming humility.

Women of every age can be charming, the old as well as the young, but a woman is at her best when she has passed her first youth and not yet entered upon old age, as far as men are concerned.

Many women who in their youth were unattractive, as they near forty become charming, agreeable and attractive, so that their companionship is appreciated by all their friends as it was not before.

Conflict in the Colonies

TO make up for her deficiency in population in the face of the overwhelming numbers of the New England Colonies New France relied on her Indian allies. These, directed, set on and controlled as far as it was possible to control these wild sons of the forest, prowled the wilderness to the north of the English settlements on the Atlantic coast and prevented northward expansion which the French would otherwise have been almost powerless to resist. From 1693 for fifty years the Abenakis, Micmacs and other Algonquin nations of this region, supplemented on special occasions by Christian Indians from the mission settlements under the eye of the French in the valley of the St. Lawrence, and even the French militia and French officers, carried on a bloody savage warfare along these borders. The English were enraged by the atrocities perpetrated and vowed the reduction of Canada and the rooting out of the French. But their incapacity for concerted action brought their schemes in this direction to naught. It was hard, also, to punish the will-o-the-wisp savages and their nimble companions, the French coureurs-de-bois.

In one direction the English could exact vengeance. This was the French colonies in Acadia. These could easily be reached by sea, and the New Englanders were at home upon the sea. Hundreds of vessels from Boston and the harbors in that neighborhood fished the Acadian waters, and even the waters of the Bay of Fundy, as they have a troublesome habit of doing to this day, to the constant indignation of the French of that time. These vessels could provide the seamen necessary to punitive expeditions which would make the machinations of the Governor of Canada at Quebec.

In the Spring of 1704 the village of Deerfield was barbarously raided by a large party of Indians and French woodsmen. Numbers were murdered, men, women and children, and numbers carried away captive. Major Church of Rhode Island, furiously indignant, wrote the Governor and Council of Massachusetts to appoint him immediately to lead a force of about seven hundred men to harry the Acadian habitations in retaliation. He laid waste the shores of Minas Basin, including the village of Grand Pré, but avoided atrocities, and was particularly careful concerning women and children. He had been forbidden to attack Port Royal, but, nevertheless, he sailed into Annapolis Basin and summoned the place to surrender. When this was haughtily refused he destroyed some outlying settlements and set his course homeward.

Three years later, however, the New Englanders made a real effort to reduce Port Royal. Colonel John March, a militia officer, commanded a force of a little over a thousand raw volunteers and four hundred and fifty sailors. The officers were civilians without serious training and of small military experience. The expedition reached Port Royal, the modern Annapolis Royal in Nova Scotia, in June drove in the picket outpost, and entrenched within range of the fort. The New Englanders' worst enemy, however, was not the French but their own lack of discipline, and the confusion resulting from the ignorance, incapacity and political intrigues of the officers.

The decisions were taken in councils which wrangling and personal animosities turned into a scandal. After innumerable changes of plan, decisions and counter-decisions, the council finally made up its mind that the business was hopeless and, conscious of disgrace, sailed to Casco Bay, where stands the modern city of Portland, Maine. But Governor Dudley of Massachusetts would not allow them to come home. In high indignation he ordered the expedition back to Port Royal and sent three civilians, members of his council, as a committee to direct the incompetent March.

ONCE again the flotilla appeared before Port Royal and the men were landed. Their morale was now extremely low; they despised their officers as incapable of leading; the officers despised the men as incapable of obedience or even co-operation; and the discipline which was bad before, was worse this time. For a week there were marching and counter-marching, advances and retreats, skirmishes and petty fightings about the place. A sharp engagement occurred in an orchard from which the French were eventually driven with some loss. But the condition of the New England force was such that both commander and committee were of the opinion that further effort was useless. Moreover, the French had been reinforced. So, on August 29, 1707, the men were re-embarked and the first really serious attempt by the New England Colonies against Port Royal had proved a ridiculous fiasco. Nevertheless, though the French commander might vaunt his success, the New England expedition had not been the least, disquieting. Neither Port Royal nor any French stronghold in Acadia was defensible against even a small attacking force if it were determined and reasonably disciplined. The King of France was not willing to spare sufficient soldiers to garrison the country which he was never to value until he had lost it.

MAKES CAPTURE OF
DIAMOND BRACELET

Headwork Saves $1,200
Jewel For Detroit Visitor,
Who Proves Grateful

Through the prompt action of the jeweler to which the misappropriated article was taken for sale, a diamond bracelet valued at $1,200, supposedly lost at the Colwood race track by a wealthy Detroit couple, has just been returned to its owner.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyer of Detroit, Mich., were holidaying in Victoria at a downtown hotel last week. While there they attended the race meet at Colwood. On Thursday last Mrs. Dyer discovered the loss of a diamond bracelet, valued at $1,200, which she had just purchased.

On Monday W. H. Wilkerson, proprietor of the Wilkerson Jewelry Store, 745 Yates Street, was approached by a man and woman who offered a valuable bracelet for sale. Mr. Wilkerson was somewhat surprised to see people in quite a quiet neighborhood like this, and he was not at all sure of the value of the bracelet. He left the bracelet in their possession and pretended he might find a buyer. Meanwhile he had their names and address.

Later Mr. Wilkerson made inquiries and discovered that a bracelet of the description offered for sale had been lost by Mrs. Dyer. He called in together with Mr. Dyer and Mr. Wilkerson went to the home of the couple in possession of the jewel. The detectives posed as buyers. Mr. Dyer identified his property, and after some misstatements, the truth came out.

The man and woman who had picked up the bracelet in front of the entrance to the hotel, and who had been offering $150 reward for its return, was posted within his sight, the man retained possession of the bracelet and subsequently offered it for sale. By so doing he was throwing himself open to a long term of imprisonment.

The owner, however, did not prosecute, and the man escapes with only the loss of his job as a reminder that honesty pays best. The reward intended for the recovery of the bracelet goes to Mr. Wilkerson.

While Detectives Rogers and Calwell of the city plain clothes force each got $20 for their share in its recovery.

Sometime ago Mr. Wilkerson was instrumental in the recovery of a $2,000 solitaire diamond in somewhat similar fashion. Brought into the store by a woman who offered it for sale. The stone was retained and in this case when the culprit returned she was asked with the owner's consent to be placed in the hands of the police.

With the thief was offered a reward which he declined with thanks.

Saanich War Memorial Health Centre

The above model of the Saanich War Memorial Health Centre was made on the instruction of the Saanich Council for inclusion in the Women's Institute health exhibit which is to be a prominent feature of the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. Through the interest of Sir Henry Thornton the model, and indeed all the Women's Institute exhibits, were transported free of charge by the Canadian National Railway. The model is the handiwork of Messrs. Menclawa and MacGill.

PRETTY WEDDING ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

On Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock St. John's Church the marriage of Miss I. M. Pollock, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Pollock of 341 Vancouver Street, and Mr. Robert Davidge, son of the late Mr. R. W. Davidge of London, England, and of Mrs. Davidge of Seattle, was solemnized by the Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick in the presence of a number of guests. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a picture of girlish charm in her wedding gown of white georgette, simply fashioned, over which was artistically arranged a handsome American lace veil attached to the collar with orange blossoms. A shower bouquet of Ophelia roses completed the bridal attire. As bridesmaid, Miss Nellie Davidge, the groom's sister, looked superb in a frock of pink-crepe-de-Chine veiled with maize georgette, trimmed with silver lace, and wore a white picture hat. The Misses Jean and Marjorie Tinkler, flower girls, were dressed alike in dainty frocks of pink silk mull and carried baskets filled with blue sweet peas. The groom was supported by Mr. Karl Pollock, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Vancouver Street.

On their return from a visit at Orcas Island and the Sound cities, Mr. and Mrs. Davidge will reside in Seattle. Among the out-of-town guests present at the wedding were the groom's mother and sister, Mrs. Davidge and Miss Nellie Davidge of Lethbridge.

TOO MANY BOARDS IN MUNICIPALITIES, DECLARES OAK BAY

"They Never Would be Missed," Hints Resolution For Union Discussion

A strong drive for the abolition of police and school boards in centres of under 8,000 population will be made by Reeve Harold F. Howitt, Councilor Major Taylor and Municipal Clerk R. F. Blaney of Oak Bay at the forthcoming convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, to be held at Penticton on September 3.

In a memorandum prepared Oak Bay finds that in a comparison between the years 1918 and 1923 school boards of the Province increased their expenditures by 55 per cent, police boards by 71 per cent, and councils by 29 per cent, thus making an average rise in the cost of the complete municipal services of 41 per cent in the last five years.

REASONS FOR ACTION

The Oak Bay Council, in its letter to the various municipalities, is including the following facts in support of its proposal:

1. It is in line with previous resolutions of the Union.

2. Municipalities now have three elected bodies, councils, school boards and police boards. Two of these bodies could easily be dispensed with, in the smaller municipalities at any rate.

3. The qualifications for members of the three bodies are practically the same.

4. The boundaries of municipalities and school districts are usually the same.

5. England affords a useful precedent; councils control the police there, and in 1902 school boards were abolished and their powers transferred to the councils.

6. The present system of depriving councils of control over police expenses and over the "ordinary expenses" of school boards is unsatisfactory.

7. Inflated estimates and extravagance are the natural results of a system which permits a school board to exact the full limit of its estimates from the municipal treasury regardless of collections, sinking funds and the other requirements of a municipality. (See Sections 57, 65 and 66 of the Public Schools Act.)

COST OF BOARDS

8. As a proof that school boards and police boards are extravagant compared with councils, the following figures of expenditure are submitted, based upon the Inspector of Municipalities' reports:

1918: School boards, $3,154,418; police boards, $600,507; councils, $1,811,772; total, $5,566,697.

1923: School boards, $3,842,510; police boards, $1,024,452; councils, $1,172,489; total, $5,939,451.

Increase: School boards, $2,688,092; police boards, $423,945; councils, $35,687; total, $3,147,724.

Per cent increase: School boards, $85; police boards, 71; councils, 29; total, 41.

9. These figures show that school expenditure has increased three times as fast, and police expenditure two and a half times as fast as council expenditure. And it may be emphasized that the latter includes increased expenditures on public utilities, which are offset in part by increased receipts.

10. During the same period of five years the total taxable assessment, including fifty per cent of the value of improvements in every municipality, has decreased from $486,483,483 to $456,046,217. This heavy increase in the expenditure of the boards becomes the more serious by reason of the decrease in the tax base.

Pet Coyote at Large With Dragging Chain

The owner of the two-headed cow now at the Victoria Fair grounds is minus his pet coyote. During the rush of pitching his show in readiness for the crowds, his circus attraction, reputed to be a big drawing card, and an animal of more than ordinary fame, escaped from its comfortable cage. With freedom and the woods before it, it made for the great outdoors. Every body on the lot joined in a frantic chase. Dodging all pursuers, it headed for the main fair gates. Chased along the road to Fort Street, it again it is at large somewhere in or around Victoria. There's a reward offered for its capture.

WORK OF LOCAL OBSERVATORY TOLD TO SCIENTISTS

In describing the work of the astronomical section of the British Association at Toronto, Dr. C. A. Chand, Professor of Astrophysics in the University of Toronto, has the following to say of the papers presented from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here. (Incidentally it may be stated Dr. Young has now taken an appointment at Toronto. Mr. Harper attended the session.)

A mystery which the astronomer seeks to solve is the nature of the nebulae. In the telescope these bodies look like hazy patches on the sky. Some of them seem to be formless, but others are beautiful spirals, rings or spindles—indeed they are the "millinery" of the sky. Of course, their nature is to be determined from their spectra. Now in 1868, at an eclipse of the sun, a brilliant yellow line in the spectrum of the outer edge of the sun was observed and was ascribed to a substance in a thin gas such as hydrogen which had provisionally been named "helium". In 1868 this substance was discovered on the earth and now it is quite familiar to us. There are several lines in the spectrum of the nebulae which have never been identified and which are said to be due to "nebulium", a substance not yet discovered. It is believed that this substance is a thin gas such as hydrogen, helium or neon.

Three—that is having three electrons revolving about its nucleus—but lithium has this atomic number and that substance is not the same as nebulium. The whole subject was discussed in a paper by H. H. Plakett of the astrophysical observatory at Victoria. Mr. Plakett has suggested that the combination of hydrogen and helium might take place in the conditions existing in the nebulae and produce the characteristic lines. Further evidence, obtainable only in a well equipped physical laboratory, is desired.

MEASURED BY LINES

Another important paper was from the observatory at Victoria, its authors being Dr. R. K. Young and W. E. Harper. The work described in it was the determination of the distance of 1,050 stars by means of their spectra.

When the light from a star is examined by the spectroscopic method it is seen as a bright band crossed by dark lines. These can easily be seen in sunlight and are known as Fraunhofer's lines. In different stars there are different lines, and some years ago it was discovered by Adams and Kohlschutter of the Mt. Wilson Observatory that by a scrutiny of these lines the distance of the star away could be determined. All that is needed is to measure the relative density of several pairs of lines and then directly deduce the distance. This sounds easy, but in actual practice it is very difficult and demands great care and judgment. But the method is now well established and this work by Young and Harper is of exceptional value. The distances range from about thirty to as much as 300 light years—that is, the light requires that long to come to us, while only eight minutes is needed for light to reach us from our sun.

WHY SHE BLUSHED

The big picture was on, and the young man-groomed his way down to the aisle and took his seat. He had not been there many seconds before the pretty girl on his left slipped her arm around his waist and rested her head on his shoulder.

In a tumult of emotion, and with a tinge of nervousness, he asked her to encircle her dainty waist.

Soon came a rude awakening. A tap on his shoulder and a voice, vibrant with righteous indignation, said, "Excuse me, sir, you're in my seat!"

Her fiancé returned from the refreshment bar.

VALUABLE DISPLAY OF RABBITS SHOWN AT THE FALL FAIR

Collection is Valued at Over $25,000; a Record For Continent

Both in point of quantity and quality the rabbit show at the Willows Fall Fair, under the management of the B.C. Provincial Rabbit Breeders' Association, Victoria Local No. 1 Branch, is claimed to be the best ever held on the American continent under national rules with rabbits to the value of $25,000 on view.

W. F. Dodge of Tacoma is the judge. Many valuable rabbits, either imported from New York or England at great expense, or bred from such imported rabbits, are being shown, and the value of the exhibit is stressed on account of the value of the fur and the development of this fast growing industry on Vancouver Island.

Mr. Gordon, of the Hudson's Bay Company, is judging the fur exhibits, which will prove a source of great surprise to those unacquainted with the extent of the rabbit fur industry, in spite of the fact that it is not a new industry.

LARGE ENTRY LIST

There are 390 single entries and thirty-four entries of does and litters, each doe having not less than six, and in some cases nine litters. Among the fur breeding rabbits shown are Chinchillas, the most popular fur bearing rabbit of the day, white Flemish another first class fur bearer in which there is a large entry.

Mr. J. H. Blackford has on display a trio of lilacs, a new fur bearing rabbit of great value.

FUR BEARERS
Special interest is centered in the Himalayans, the fur of which is used for the manufacture of imitation ermine, and which Mrs. J. French, one of the executive of the show, states have been bred a hundred years ago.

A carload of noteworthy entries is showing English black and tans, having imported the first of these rabbits from England.

There is fair showing of Blue Faced and Blue Bavarians, and Mrs. Mead Robbins is showing two very fine newly imported lavender Bavarians which recently arrived from England. Among the prize winners to-day was a steel doe weighing 17½ pounds, shown by T. Clarke.

A feature of the exhibit in the Rabbit Show Building is the display of manufactured rabbit wool articles, fleece and spun rabbit wool, manufactured fur articles and dressed rabbit skins.

EVERY POULTRY COOP OCCUPIED

Every available coop in the poultry show at the Provincial Fall Fair at the Willows is occupied this year, each bird being in a single coop and shown under perfect conditions.

William Walker of New Westminster in the exhibit class and C. Good of Nelson in the utility class, commenced making their awards yesterday morning. Altogether there are 800 entries, far higher than the total last year, and some excellent birds are on view in the newly renovated building. A carload of noteworthy entries was received from J. H. Warington of Cornwall, Ontario, which includes some exceptionally fine ornamental bantams, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes.

Predominant, most of the birds shown being local birds, although Tacoma, Nanaimo are represented, in addition to the Ontario birds mentioned. J. F. Sarlat is among the large exhibitors with Polish, Faverols, white crested, black Polish and Hamburgs. J. A. Corbett is secretary of the division and Johnson Graham superintendent.

TO LEAVE POST

Nanaimo, Aug. 20.—Principal Gunn of the Nanaimo High School resigned his position at the board meeting last evening. In accepting the resignation the board paid tribute to the improved condition of the school under his principality.

PLAN FOR WEEK

Plan a week's meal at a time. A meal that is planned with reference to others has better food values and more variety at less expense than one planned with reference to only one serving.

TELLS DYSPPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. This "acid" stomach is exceedingly dangerous and suffers should do either one of two things.

Either eat only a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bismarck Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bismarck Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of Bismarck tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present at the time of the meal.

Get a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the liquid form is not a laxative. Try this meal and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

Under the heading "Causes of Domestic Troubles" an article appears, showing that one of the chief causes is carelessness on the part of the young wife in her morning home attire—but now that the ladies are getting the "Star Textile Habit," men would rather stay home and admire their wives than go to the club.

DECLARES FOR DEATH
PENALTY FOR TWO

State Attorney Addresses
Judge at Loeb-Leopold
Hearing in Chicago

Only Three Crimes Carry
Capital Punishment; Youths
Committed Two

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Two of the three crimes for which Illinois provides the death penalty—murder, rape and kidnapping—were committed by Nathan P. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb in a manner justifying nothing less than death on the gallows, Thomas Marshall, assistant state attorney, told Judge John R. Caverly today. He urged the extreme penalty in an argument based upon the phraseology of the Illinois laws and the formal charges connected with the kidnapping and murder of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks, to which the defendants have pleaded guilty.

Judge Caverly opened a book of law and followed the text as Mr. Marshall read the cold, hard phrases defining murder and kidnapping as capital crimes in this state. The phrase "shall suffer the penalty of death" was always brought in, a voice raised in tone and emphasis in its deliberateness.

All children from the Tillikum School intending to compete in the sports on Saturday, August 20, are asked to report at the Tillikum School on Saturday August 23 to place their name on the entry list.

HI-JACKING CASE
IN COUNTY COURT

Two Held in Connection With Pender Island Raid Will Elect Friday

Kelly and Fluger, two men held by the provincial police in connection with the hi-jacking raid on the gas boat Lillums off Pender Island this Spring, will appear for election before a judge in County Court on Friday, it was learned today.

The defendants are accused of robbing the boat Lillums of $3,000 worth of liquor, mostly beer. Elmer Meredith and L. H. Jackson will appear for defence and Crown respectively. According to evidence given by complainants in the police court the raid was carried out by two American speed boats with considerable daring. The liquor was transhipped and the complainants told to keep under cover and attempt no reprisals. Kelly and Fluger were arrested some weeks after the raid, and are alleged by the complainants to have been on the boats making the raid.

POLITICIANS FLOCK TO NELSON TO GET
BY-ELECTION THRILL

Premier Declares "Crooked Work" Charges Similar to Baseless Pre-Election Talk

Chance in Courts and Before Legislature to Prove Assertions, He Says

Nelson, Aug. 20.—Nelson has never had such an outpouring of political spilling. Members and politicians of all complexions are flocking into the city from all parts of the Province to take part in the activities preliminary to the by-election next Saturday. Outside politicians fill nearly all the hotel capacity of the city. There are also all kinds of political managers, expert propagandists and ardent supporters who cannot keep away when a fight is on.

R. H. Pooley, new Conservative leader, said that the Conservatives were for opposing the Premier anywhere, although they did not do so in this instance, preferring to have the candidate against the Premier under the description of "Citizens." Mr. Bowser will not have anything to do with the fight. The "big three" of the Provincials, General A. D. McRae, financier and leader of the party; John Nelson, editor of the Third Party pamphlet, and A. McCree, M.P. for Vancouver arrived on the scene yesterday and said they were out to stir things up for the Premier despite their party defeat in the general election.

With the "big three" in R. F. Cruise, General McRae's candidate in North Vancouver, and J. P. for Vancouver, which went heavily against the Provincials, T. S. Beaton, Vancouver is also speaking against the Premier.

Mr. Cruise is joining Mr. Pooley in speaking for Harry Houston, the Citizens' candidate. Mary Ellen Smith, M.P.P. of Vancouver, Mrs. McGregor, defeated Liberal candidate in Bentick, Capt. Ian Mackenzie, M.P.P. of Vancouver, and the Hon. John Hart of Victoria were speakers at Premier Oliver's meeting last night. Mrs. Kenneth Campbell held a reception for women in Eagle Hall in the afternoon, at which political speeches were delivered.

Premier Oliver, dealing with North Vancouver charges which have been brought up in the Nelson campaign, said there was recourse in law for any alleged wrong-doing, and that further recourse before the Legislature. He questioned just how much credence was to be put in the charges made by the very same parties who had broadcasted foundationless charges of all kinds before and during the recent election. "Who is to say that the answers from absent voters were not faked like so many of the charges they made from the election platform last June," he asked.

The Premier ascribed his defeat in Victoria to the unfair attitude of churches and prohibitionists.

SAYS MCCOY ABSENT
WHEN MURDER DONE

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—Kid McCoy, former pugilist, indicted yesterday on a charge of having murdered Mrs. Theresa W. Mora on the night of August 12 last, left the apartment where he and Mrs. Mora were living together before the shot was fired that stretched the woman dead with a bullet in her brain, according to testimony by Dagmar Dahlgren, dancer and eighth wife of McCoy. The dancer told the police she had been "spying" on McCoy and Mrs. Mora; saw McCoy leave the apartment, and Mrs. Mora turn out the lights; then noticed the sound of a "heavy-set" man, heard an argument and then a shot. Mrs. Iva Walter, apartment-house neighbor of Mrs. Mora, also testified that she saw a heavy-set man leave the Mora apartment a few minutes after a shot was heard there and identified this man as Albert A. Mora, divorced husband of the dead man, heir to her estate and beneficiary of her life insurance. MCCOY DENIES CHARGE Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—When Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist, was arraigned in superior court here today and the indictment was read to him charging him with the murder of Theresa W. Mora, his eyes flashed and he cried, "I did not." His formal plea, at his attorney's request, was postponed until next Monday.

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—Five thousand dollars worth of jewels, reported by Albert A. Mora taken from his wife, who died August 12 with a bullet in her brain, were recovered today by police from Mrs. Jennie Thomas, sister of Kid McCoy, the ex-pugilist, who yesterday was indicted for the murder, according to Captain of Detectives Herman Cline.

Prince Rupert, Aug. 20.—A forest fire burned over three square miles near Alice Arm, destroying one of the finest stands of timber in the district. The outbreak was reported under control today. Every available man has been fighting the blaze for several days.

MOST ROMANTIC BACKGROUND IN TARKINGTON FILM

The Valentino fans are again having their fill. After an absence of two years, the person's greatest love returns to the world of lights and shadows in Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire," which Sidney Olcott produced for Paramount this week. The picture is playing at the Dominion Theatre.

The romantic background of this story is the gorgeous court of Louis XV, famous for the standards of etiquette and fashion that it set but in famous for its vice and love affairs. Something unusual in the way of costumes and settings may be expected in view of the fact that historical accuracy is a feature of this colorful play.

Briefly told, the story revolves around the attractive Duke de Charres, who, refusing to marry the charming Princess de Bourbon-Conti at the royal command. To escape the wrath of the King of France, the notorious Louis XV, he flees to England. There, masquerading as a barber, he meets and captivates the beautiful Lady Mary, only to have her turn against him when she finds he is an impostor. Forgiven by the King, he returns to France and the Princes whom he realizes he really loves.

In "Penrod and Sam," the J. K. McDonald production, distributed by First National, Rockliffe Fellows plays the father of Ben Alexander, a stern and dignified father.

In "Boy of Mine," also a Booth Tarkington story which McDonald has produced for First National, Fellows plays the role of a lover of children—a man who understands "kiddies" and takes a genuine interest in them.

His portrayal of the conflicting roles proves his dramatic ability and gives two interesting and human studies of every day life. "Boy of Mine" is now being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

YE, HE, HO! AND A BOTTLE OF OLD PIRATE APPLEJACK

"Fifteen men on a dead man's chest—ye, he, ho! and a bottle of rum!" Captain Applejack, the seventeenth century pirate, was swagging along the deck of his ship, in the person of Matt Moore, the screen actor, and his crew of screen cut-throats were singing lustily over their near grog. They had set sail from Long Beach, California, and were far beyond the three-mile limit, where a man could raise a thirst. That was about all he could raise.

Eager "extras" posted as lookouts in the crow's nest, ready to sight a ship on the horizon, were looking anxiously for one of these rum running vessels they had read about. They were willing to commit real piracy themselves if they came across a rum ship.

Fred Niblo, producing the picture, "Strangers of the Night," watched them anxiously, as their enthusiasm for rum kept running higher and higher. Turning to Matt Moore, who appears in the picture as the pirate chief, "Captain Applejack," he suggested that the psychological effect of too many rum songs might prove disastrous. There were murmuring among the crew.

"We must get the rum idea out of their heads," he told Mr. Moore. "All right," said Mr. Moore. "Get them to sing, 'Ye, he, ho! and a bottle of applejack!'"

"Strangers of the Night," now playing at the Columbia Theatre, is a Fred Niblo production, presented by Louis B. Mayer and distributed by Metro. It was adapted from Walter Hackett's success, "Captain Applejack," by Hess Meredith. The photography is by Alvin Wyckoff and the art direction by Robert Ellis.

EVELYN BRENT FINDS ACTING PAINFUL EFFORT

With twelve yards of silk twined around her slim figure, and pearls ornamenting her ears, neck, arms, ankles and toes, Evelyn Brent steps into the romantic role of Lolita in George Archainbaud's production, "The Shadow of the East," the William Fox screen version of E. M. Hull's novel. Miss Brent, in accordance with the custom of the Hills of India, wears no shoes, only pearls draped effectively around her toes. An inoffensive but sharp pointed tack became enamored of her right foot. Miss Brent, being in the midst of a scene at this psychological moment bore the pain for art's sake, but when the camera stopped grinding, art fled and first aid to the pain-stricken was rushed to Miss Brent, who resumed work immediately after. "The Shadow of the East" is showing now at the Pantages.

HOW SHOCKING! VIOLA DANA AS HOUSE BREAKER

If you opened your paper to-morrow and found staring at you the news that Viola Dana had been caught in the act of robbing a house, what would you think? The chances are you would believe Miss Dana had been living a strange Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence.

But that was exactly what Viola Dana did, and not at the studio either! The house broken into by the screen star was Warner Baxter's. Mr. Baxter is Miss Dana's—leading man in her latest Metro success, "In Search of a Thrill," is showing at the Playhouse.

Now you've guessed it! The "robbery" was an impromptu rehearsal of an identical scene in "In Search of a Thrill" that was directed by Oscar Apfel, photographed by John Arnold, and adapted to the screen by Basil Dickey from Kate Jordan's magazine story.

In the picture Miss Dana disguises herself as a crook, and breaks into the home of the man she loves, so that she may be captured and win his sympathy. So Miss Dana gained access through a porch window of the Baxter home, and they went through the scene with such effective results that the next day Director Apfel was amazed when they acted the episode for the camera without a single rehearsal.

GROW CHAULMOOGRA PLANTS NOW IN U.S.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Uncle Sam has enlisted in the fight against leprosy from a new angle. At the Department of Agriculture's station at Belts, Maryland, the Government is engaged in growing chaulmoogra plants, from which oil will be obtained to treat lepers.

About 670 plants are growing in Maryland, and over 2,000 have already been shipped to Hawaii, the Philippines, the Panama Canal Zone and Porto Rico, to mature in the warm tropics, and on these there is no place in the United States where the trees will develop fully.

The work has been going on since 1920, when Joseph F. Rock, agricultural explorer attached to the office of foreign seed and plant introduction, visited the jungles of Burma and Siam, searching for chaulmoogra trees.

Rock found that its seeds and oil "have been known for centuries to the natives of Burma and southern Asia in general as palliatives in leprosy and other skin diseases, and were employed by them both externally and internally."

There are about 500 lepers in the United States, as nearly as can be ascertained, says the United States Public Health Service. About 315 are in one colony at Carville, Louisiana. A small colony which was located at Buzzards Bay in Massachusetts was merged with the Louisiana colony in 1921. There are about 200 registered lepers, and it is estimated that around 150 have not been identified.

Scientists are looking to chaulmoogra oil as their salvation, and the results achieved thus far with it least sanguine medical men. To foretell the day when leprosy will be added to the list of maladies which man can control.

MAP SHOWS PARKING REGULATIONS IN THIS CITY

After careful consideration the City Council has modified the parking regulations, the rules for the conduct of automobiles downtown having recently come into operation. There is still a considerable misunderstanding about the rules, and with a view to clearing them up The Times publishes the above map and also restates the regulations with regard to cars.

These may be set out as follows: The words "business district" shall mean and include all that district within the City of Victoria bounded as follows: On the north by the north side of Cormorant Street; on the east by the west side of Blanshard Street; on the south by the south side of Courtney Street; and on the west by the west side of Wharf Street, the north side of Johnson Street between Wharf Street and Store Street and the west side of Store Street, together with that portion of

(c) On the north side of Yates Street between Broad and Government Streets.
(d) On both sides of Bastion Street between Government and Blanshard Streets.
1. No vehicle shall be parked on the south side of Port Street for a distance of fifty feet west of Douglas Street and for a distance of fifty feet east of Government Street.
2. No vehicle shall be parked for any purpose on the south side of Port Street between Government and Douglas Streets unless such vehicle shall stand wholly within the space of seventy-four inches from the sidewalk curb except for the purpose of loading or unloading merchandise or freight. When for such purpose the vehicle shall stand parallel with the curb.
3. No vehicle shall be parked on the south side of Port Street between Government and Douglas Streets at a distance of less than six feet from any other parked vehicle.

A Real Circus at Victoria Fair

The seventh daughter of a seventh grandmother is here to tell the past, present and future; a "Cherique" Indian direct from Oklahoma is here as a dual attraction with similar occult powers. There's Southern fried chicken fried Southern style, a two-headed calf, Coney Island red hot dogs, wheels of fortune where you win not merely kewpie doll but a handsome blanket with glaring colors, blended in King Tut jazz and dozens of other regular circus lot extras on the new and enlarged paystreak at the exhibition at the Willows. Never has such a variety been offered on the sidewalk at Victoria, and the fascination of the noise and the glaryear scores of sweet singing canaries in wonderful gilded cages tempt the visitors to the exhibition. At another concession nearby there are enough highly colored ladies walking canes and parasols to set a new fashion in Victoria. The once favorite kewpie doll fights valiantly to hold the popularity it formerly enjoyed, but before the early colored blankets, the parasols and the canaries it is losing the race.

The premiums on the paystreak change as the years go by. The prized collar stud or the packet of pins still changes hands freely. The orators in charge of the shows continue to hand them out with the same reckless abandon, but there are greater prizes to tempt the players, and they are shown in one great glittering display with the showman's skill in psychology to convey to the crowds that they need a big supply in stock to make them go round at the rate they are given away. This band to the Hamburger man who incidentally is also among the many sellers of pink lemonade. Persistently he sings or chants in the morning, "Have you had your breakfast?" Later in the morning, he changes his solicitous inquiry, "Isn't it time for lunch?" and then again as the day rolls on, "How about your supper?" The paystreak would not be complete without some real music apart from the songs of the concession men, and that is supplied by the merry-go-round organ. The pipes apparently got switched in the morning around, but the music is there, and they give a long ride for a dime.

Michael Finnerty has seen Every Victoria Fair Since First Effort at Beacon Hill

Michael Finnerty, having gaily entered upon his thirty-first year last Friday, spent yesterday afternoon at the Willows Exhibition, where he overtook his first fair, the Victoria Fair of the passing years. "I was a spectator at the first exhibition ever held here, more than thirty years ago, when Beacon Hill Park was the site and the collection included a few fruit classes, a handful of stock entries, and we all gathered on the grounds to see the pony races. And we were simply filled with pride because of our achievement."

"I was getting on towards fifty in those days, and had no conception of the value of the fair. I was the fore-runner. What do I think of this exhibition? Never saw the equal of it! And I have never seen a show since that first little effort."

"Of course, there are some folk you can never please, but I say this: thirty years ago I never thought the day would come when I should be able to delight in a wonderful display of our own flowers and fruits. I never expected to see so many varied industries centred in my beloved Victoria, and as for live stock, such fine animals were undreamed of."

And Mr. Finnerty, more lively than many men half his age, wandered off to inspect another section of the livestock pavilion.

$3,000,000 OF NEW MONEY FOR CITY THIS YEAR

Estimated Expenditure of 300,000 Tourists Visiting This Summer

Revenue Would be Greater But For Lack of Sufficient Publicity

With many weeks of the present season still to run, it is already clear that the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau's estimate of 300,000 tourists for 1924 is going to be far surpassed. But 300,000 tourists with an estimated expenditure of but ten dollars per head per season means $3,000,000 of new money in Victoria. And the uniquely interesting feature of this business is that the same money which was sold to those 300,000 might just as well have been sold to three times that number or a million, for the same reason. For years, transportation was far too complicated and too expensive to allow the great majority of the traveling public of America to visit the Pacific Coast. But paved highways and good motor roads, and the fact that ten million motor cars are today owned privately in the United States, have made the Pacific Northwest a possible holiday playground for tens of thousands as against hundreds only a few seasons ago. Again, the building up of the great cities of Los Angeles, with its more than a million inhabitants, and San Francisco with an almost equal number, and the linking of them to the Pacific Northwest by the 15,000 miles of paved road called the Pacific Highway has given Victoria a nearby market in which to sell its wares as a Summer holiday resort.

TRANSPORTATION COMPANIES recognizing these facts are acting. More and more commodious auto ferries and passenger steamers with not only practically 100% increase in accommodation but which will also knock an hour or more off the run, will ply between Victoria and the mainland next summer, while the big land transportation companies are already planning special holiday trains that will bring thousands from the broiling middle and southern States to the cool Northwest.

It is estimated that Americans spend more than $900,000,000 annually on travel on the coast, and according to transportation officials an ever increasing amount of travel is coming yearly to the Pacific Coast and northward to Puget Sound and British Columbia. That this latter estimate is correct is amply borne out by the cities of Seattle, Portland, Spokane, Tacoma and Vancouver, all of which report rapidly increasing tourist traffic. These cities claim from a million and a half to 500,000 tourists annually and without exception have accepted the again winning and pleaded during the present season, for more and more Victoria literature as they could not get enough to put in the hands of the traveling public, state definitely that Victoria is the objective of a very great number of those visiting the Northwest but that many are stopped from coming across the island because they cannot easily obtain definite information regarding transportation, hotels and the attractions that Victoria has to offer as a Summer holiday resort.

BUSINESS OFFERED

It is therefore clear that the business is offering, the only hindrance being lack of sufficient publicity matter. Yet the whole of the city grant to Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, $10,000, has been spent in pamphlets and advertising generally the result being the issuance and distribution of more than 317,000 pieces of descriptive literature, and the publication of newspaper advertisements reaching a combined reading public of over 10,000,000. Added to this have been a number of descriptive illustrated articles long and short, in newspapers and magazines reaching a reading public of over 20,000,000, and matter and photographs for lectures given to a combined audience of over 2,000,000.

Of course the newspaper, magazine and lecture publicity, but ways the traveling public's appetite for more detailed descriptive literature so that although the 317,000 pamphlets distributed showed a marked increase over last year, they hardly satisfied ten per cent of the demand for them.

It will be seen from the foregoing that lack of sufficient publicity matter is retarding the tourist business. In fact until the point of saturation is reached, the number of tourists visiting Victoria will increase in almost exact ratio to the amount of publicity matter issued and distributed.

STRETCH BUYING POWER

By budgeting carefully and watching and questioning the expenditure of every cent, the directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau have so stretched the buying power of the city grant of $10,000 that Victoria has unquestionably been the most publicized city in the world, and nearby cities have obtained for an expenditure of two or three times as much. But there are limits to these limits have been reached. If the tourist trade is to reach the objective aimed at by the Bureau, of a million visitors, the financial means must be provided. This business is too big to be any longer financed on $10,000.

WILL GIVE CHASE TO RUM-RUNNERS

Seattle, Aug. 20.—United States patrol boat 286, first of a series of gun-chasers under construction in Seattle, was launched yesterday at the Lake Union drydock and machine works. With four others of similar design, she will be assigned to the coastguard service under Captain F. G. Dodge for duty in chasing Private Sound liquor runners. The boats will cost $22,500 each.

HOME PRODUCTS BUILDING HOLDS FAIR POPULARITY
Most of Big Stores of City Have Displays; Model Post Office

Products of British Columbia are remarkably well represented in the Home Products Building at the Provincial Fair at the Willows, and this building in which a band plays each afternoon and evening is one of the hardy annuals of the fair which retains its popularity this year. Most of the big stores of the city have taken space, and the display is more representative of Victoria industries than those of the Province.
The Victoria Post Office exhibit in the building is attracting large crowds. Here a model, fully established post office is in operation, and visitors to the fair can now mail in the building from the time of mailing to its dispatch for ultimate destination. The exterior of this exhibit is a representation of the old Victoria Post Office and Bastion Fort, splendidly executed by Mr. George Hallett of the post office staff. Those who may be interested in the collection of postage stamps will here see a fine exhibit of stamps issued since Confederation, besides other old stamps of various countries. In the demonstration given in connection with this interesting post office the public are shown the immense amount of extra work installed by carelessness in the stamping and addressing of mail, and much may be learnt which will tend to facilitate the handling of our mail service.
An exhibit of really remarkable portraits in water color is shown by Mr. Gustavus A. Maves. Mr. Maves is an artist of no ordinary merit. He settled in Victoria during the Fall of 1918 for his health, having for years lived in Toronto, in which city he painted nearly all the celebrities of that city. Born near the town of Pembroke, Ont., Mr. Maves comes of a family who may be numbered among the very early pioneers of the district. Mrs. Maves is likewise an artist of renown and her work in miniatures upon ivory is hard to excel.

The Tranquille "T.B." Publicity Society, which is doing so much to fight the great white plague, and is worthy of earnest public support, has a splendid exhibit of nine needles work in the form of cake and fruit baskets, flower pot covers, tea trays, etc. These articles are all made from the needles taken from the bull pinches which are found in the Tranquille and Kamloops districts.

Next to this exhibit is that of the Growers' Wine Co. Ltd., specializing in the production of wine known by the name of Vin Soliel. Last year 8,000 gallons were put up. This year 20,000 gallons have been casked. This exhibit has a most attractive background in the form of three beautifully executed panels by the local scenic artist, Boyd MacGill, one representing the culture of the loganberry, another a representation of the company's warehouse, whilst the third shows the city from the sea at dusk with the glimmering lights of Victoria's homes.
Alongside of the Growers' Wine Co. is appropriately an exhibit of barrels and vats. These are shown by H. Wilkinson of the George Road. Besides the wine display made by Shelly Bros. in bread, cake, etc., Messrs. Rennie & Taylor have also made most attractive exhibit in this building.

The Premier Phonograph Co. have again a splendid showing of their locally made machines.
Messrs. David Spencer Ltd. have this year one of the best displays ever made by this old Victoria house exhibiting their own special products. Spencer's own tea and coffee is served free in a dainty arbor of wisteria blossoms.
The Hudson's Bay Co. have again a magnificent exhibit of furs. The furs in this fine exhibit represent many thousands of dollars and are shown upon wax models in the garden with four models playing in its centre. This company is also giving an interesting demonstration of the use of the Hoover in the home.

Messrs. Scurrell Ltd. have a most attractive space in this building and are showing the very latest in ladies' costumes, costumes and gowns which have only arrived with the opening of the Fair.
Messrs. Weller Bros. have an excellent display of household furniture, including a magnificent bungalow. These exhibits of furniture made and upholstered in Victoria are commanding no little public notice.
Two of Victoria's coal firms have made fine and original exhibits in this building, namely, Messrs. Kingham & Co. and Mackay & Gillespie. The Paint Supply Co. have an attractive stall showing their products and demonstrating a leading industry in Victoria.

Another Victoria industry is shown by the Sidney Roofing & Paper Co. Ltd. Here roofing felt and artistic wall covering are seen with running water covering the roof to demonstrate its durability.
Messrs. A. E. Taylor & Co. have a fine demonstration of their electric washing machines.
To those who are interested in the products of the ranch the demonstration being made by Mrs. Maude E. McVicker in wearing the actual wool taken from their flocks of black sheep and Angora goats is one which is proving interesting. A hand loom is shown in operation and Mrs. McVicker has a fine showing of automobile rugs and mats, woven cushions, etc.

Another interesting exhibit in this building is a home product is the Mellis Hand Signal for automobiles. The Victoria Bed & Mattress Co. are again exhibiting their mattresses, etc., whilst next to their stand is that of the Silbion Stove Co., one of the oldest manufacturing firms in the city. The local firm of William Burns exhibiting many kinds of leather goods has an attractive display, whilst last, but not least in this building in the matter of public interest is the stand of the Victoria branch of the Junior Red Cross, where this society is demonstrating by photographs the wonderful work it is accomplishing for those poor

Uncle Wiggily's Bird Kite
(Copyright, 1924, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

By Howard R. Garis
Nurse Jane Fussy Wuzzy and Uncle Wiggily were sitting on the sands of the seashore one day when the rabbit gentleman looked down the beach where Sammie and Susie Bushytail, the rabbit children, were playing. Not far away Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the piglet boys, were having fun.

"I must get me one of those," said Uncle Wiggily, with a twitch of his left ear.
"Of one what?" asked Nurse Jane. "Do you mean you are going to get some of the bean bags Sammie and Susie are playing with?"
"No, but a kite like the one the rabbit boys are flying." Uncle Wiggily, for Curly and Floppy were running about the sand, and in the air, over their heads darted something like a big red bird.

"I never heard of such a thing," cried Miss Fussy Wuzzy.

"You don't mean to say you are going to get a bird kite, are you?" asked the muskrat lady house-keeper.
"Yes, I am," answered the bunny gentleman. "I know a place on the seashore boardwalk where a dog gentleman sells kites from China. Some are made in the shape of animals and some look like big birds. Curly and Floppy have a bird kite and I'm going to get one."
"But—the idea! I never heard of such a thing!" cried Miss Fussy Wuzzy. "An old rabbit gentleman like you wanting to fly a kite!"
"I'm not old!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "At least I don't feel old. And, anyhow, it's a bird kite, and what's the difference between that and a kite?" Nurse Jane wanted to know.
"Oh, lots of difference!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Why, in China, old men, and even old rabbits, I suppose, fly bird kites. So, if they do it in China I can do it here. Anyhow, I'm going to!"
When Uncle Wiggily spoke like that Nurse Jane knew there was little use in saying anything more. But when the rabbit gentleman came back from the boardwalk with a big, red bird kite, having flapping wings, a tail and everything—the muskrat lady just sniffed with her nose, indifferent-like and contemptuous.
"Now I'm going to fly my bird kite," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I think I'm going to look at you!" sniffed Nurse Jane. "I think you're too silly for anything!"
She pretended to be reading a book as she sat under a sun umbrella on the beach. All of a sudden Nurse Jane felt something pulling at her long tail, and, glancing down, she saw the big sea lobster that once had tried to pinch Uncle Wiggily.
"Oh! Oh!" screamed Miss Fussy Wuzzy, as the lobster waved his big claws at her. "Save me, Wiggily! Save me!"
Uncle Wiggily was far down the beach, but he heard Nurse Jane's cry. Quickly the rabbit gentleman tossed his bird kite up in the air. He held it by a long string. The wind caught in the wings of the toy—in the big red wings. Straight for the lobster flew Uncle Wiggily's bird kite. The lobster, who was just going to pinch Nurse Jane, saw the kite coming. He thought it was a real bird.

"Oh, don't let the eagle get me! Don't take me up in your claws, Mr. Eagle!" gurgled the lobster. "I'll be good. I won't hurt Nurse Jane! I'll crawl back into the ocean!"
And he did—being frightened by Uncle Wiggily's bird kite.
"Well, Nurse Jane, are you all right now?" asked the bunny, as he hopped up the sand, winding in his kite string.
"Yes, thank you," answered Miss Fussy Wuzzy. "And you may fly that bird as much as you like, Wiggily!"
"Thank you!" laughed the bunny uncle. And, like the old men of China, he flew his kite. So if the golfish doesn't flap its tail and splash water on the face of the clock, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's pocketbook.

FROM BABINES
Bringing in some of the finest specimens of grey copper ore ever seen in Smithers, James Wright was in Smithers from his group of claims in the Babines, and he is making arrangements to start some permanent work by way of a tunnel on the new showings. ## WHEN THE MAIL CAME IN

By REX BEACH
World Famed Author of Successful Fiction

"Don't talk that way about a girl," said he to the stranger, and it made a sensation among the crowd.
"I never knew a man before with courage enough to kick in public on such subjects. As it was the man said something so much worse that right there the front busted out of the tiger-cage and for a few brief moments we were given over to chaos."
I had seen Whitewater walloped and I knew how full of parlor tricks the kid was, but this time he went in and he knocked that man off the counter at the first pass and climbed him with his horns as he lay on the floor. A fight is a fight and a good thing for spectators and participants for it does more to keep down scurvy than anything I know of, but the thud of those heavy boots into that helpless flesh sickened me, and we rushed forward out of there while he struggled like a maniac. I never saw such a complete reversal of form. Somewhere, away back yonder, that boy's forefathers were pirates, and all at once my head felt apart like wet sawdust.

"What made me do it—what made me do it?" he cried. "I'm crazy. Why, I tried to kill him! And yet what he said is true—that's the worst of it—it's true. Think of it, and I fought for her. What am I coming to?"
After the clean-up we came to camp, waiting for the ferry to break and the first boat to follow. It was then that the suspense began to tell on our partner. He read and reread his letters, but there was little hope in them, and now, with no work to do, he grew nervous. Added to everything else, our food ran short, and we lived on scraps of whatever was left over from our winter grub-stake. Just out of cussedness the break-up was ten days late, the ten longest days I ever put in, but eventually it came, and a week later also came the mail. We needed food and clothes, we needed whisky, we needed news of open cuts on the Rainbow No. 2.

Already they have taken out considerable ore from the open cuts, and the sample brought in shows indications of being sufficiently rich to stand shipment costs by parcel post. In width the showing is very strong, and after some more work in the cuts it is hoped to be able to start a tunnel to determine the depth of the ore body.
On the Wright group three tunnels have been run on different veins, of which there are five on the three claims, and they have gratifying showings to encourage continuation of the work.

SUN SPOTS GROWING NOW IN NUMBER

Washington, Aug. 20.—Old Sol is getting the measles" again.
Between February and August of last year the sun had a minimum number of spots, Professor George H. Peters of the United States Naval Observatory here observed. The number of spots now is increasing and will increase for a number of years. The sun spot cycle occurs every 11 years, says Professor Peters, and has just passed the minimum, with the next minimum in prospect for 1924.
For a number of days during the middle of 1923 no spots were seen on the sun's disc. Just where the zero point for sun spots is given rise to a difference of opinion.

NORTHERN LIGHTS
During the period of sunspot minimum the intensity of the northern lights in the lower latitudes gives evidence of intense magnetic conditions. Some spots do not produce marked northern lights, while others do. Just which spots cause probable increase in the rainbow-colored aurora is a problem which Professor Peters is working on now.
Each clear day of the year at noon Professor Peters photographs the sun. A photoheliograph, with five-inch aperture and forty feet focal length is used. The image of the sun is taken on a plate four and a half inches in diameter. The light is thrown into the camera from the surface of an unsilvered mirror.
Professor Peters has been in charge of this work for twenty-five years.

ENJOYABLE DANCE AT SHANNICAN

Regatta Will be Held Next Saturday; Thirty-four Land And Water Events

Special to The Times
Shannican Lake, Aug. 18.—The Strathcona Lawn Tennis Club was the host to a most enjoyable dance held at the Strathcona Lodge on Friday. Dancing took place in the lodge ballroom, which was tastefully decorated. The attendance was large, the neighboring clubs were well represented. Kinloch's orchestra played the latest in dance music. Supper was served on the lower veranda, which was fairly decorated with Japanese lanterns and flowers. Among the many guests were noticed Judge and Mrs. Lammiman, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. McDiarmid, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Gilleland, Miss Kinloch, Miss A. Clark, Miss I. Clark, Miss Milne, Miss Wallich, Miss Cullum, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Watson Clark, Miss Sylvia Appleby, Miss Furlong, Miss Mannell, Miss Musgrave, Miss M. Elliot, Mrs. Wyld, Miss Victoria Wyld, Misses H. and K. Macklin, Mr. Kinloch, Mr. L. J. Hamilton, Mr. Wallich, Capt. Molesworth, Mr. E. Clark, Mr. B. Bowler, Mr. Miles Elson, Mr. Wingate Whyte, Mr. Keene and Rev. Mr. Crewe and wife.
Bridge tables were provided for the non-dancers. The dance was the first of a series planned by the club, and proved a very successful function.
Owing to the rain the week-end match with the Cowichan Tennis Club was postponed. This week-end a match has been arranged with the Victoria Tennis Club.

The annual S.L.A.A. regatta takes place at the lake on Saturday. There will be land sports in addition to water sports. A mile running event for a cup presented by Dr. Lewis Hall will be the star event of the regatta. The mile, the half-mile, the quarter mile for the Peden Cup will be a feature for the water events. Altogether there are thirty-four events, and a splendid collection of prizes have been secured for all the races. The land sports will start at 1 o'clock, and the water events at 2 o'clock. A live duck hunt is on the cards, and will prove very exciting. In the evening a dance will be held in the S.L.A.A. Hall. A special orchestra has been engaged. This is the nineteenth annual regatta.

The Glaz Temple Shrine thirty-three-piece band will give a band concert and dance in the S.L.A.A. Hall on Saturday, August 30. This event is being looked forward to with great pleasure.
GIDEON HICKS CONCERT PARTY IS APPRECIATED
Special to The Times
Cowichan Station, Aug. 18.—De-servicing of a far larger audience, the first concert held by the Gideon Hicks Concert Party on their island tour, on Monday night in the C.A.C. Hall, Cowichan Station, was a rare treat to the sixty people who attended.
Of the four artists it would be almost impossible to select any who gave the most pleasure. As were a delight to the ear and richly deserved the enthusiastic applause which greeted each item.
The songs chosen were for the main part ones which have charmed audiences in days gone by.

Claude Anstead, the possessor of a rich tenor voice, whose contributions disclosed a variety of expression and notes of rare clearness and depth, was the first to sing, with "Glorious Devon." He received a hearty encore which was generously given.
Miss Ida New's songs were admirably suited to her clear contralto voice, her deep notes in particular being a real pleasure to the ear.
The possessor of a charming personality and gifted with a natural soprano voice, Miss Dorothy Hicks instantly won the hearts of her audience in her first item and it was with difficulty that she was finally allowed to leave the stage after giving two encores.
One of the outstanding features of a remarkably fine programme was the operatic aria from Verdi "Eri tu che Macchiavi," contributed by Mr. Gideon Hicks, whose pupils had given such a good account of themselves and reflected a large amount of credit on him.
Mr. Hicks, who is no newcomer to a Cowichan audience, in a wonderful rich baritone, full of expression and of rare purity. He was enthusiastically received in each of his all too short songs.
A duet by Miss Dorothy Hicks and Mr. Claude Anstead provided a pleasant variety in the programme and was again well received.
Miss Hicks in her third appearance was fascinating in her old-fashioned costume, specially suited to her two dauntless French songs, which were given with all the requisite style and charm. They proved a delightful choice and brought out her undoubted talent.

To Mrs. Clifford Wain a large part of the musical success of the affair is due for her sympathetic accompanying throughout was a feature. She has a wonderful artistic style and seems at all times to be in complete harmony with those she accompanies.
PRIZE PULLETS

Notice to Breeders of Livestock

Mr. Erick Bowman, the discoverer of The Bowman Remedy, claims that in treating 70,000 cattle in the United States the results have been successful in 98% of the cases treated. Are your dairy cows and heifers causing you trouble?

Are you obtaining results in calves and milk that satisfy you?

Do your cows (according to your knowledge of their capacity) produce as much milk as they should—or are you marking time and feeding a number of boarders? It should be sent to the butcher? These are matters that can be put right. Delays are fatal. Why not consult

PROF. FRECHEVILLE VISITS VICTORIA

Was Formerly Professor at Royal School of Mines, London

There is money in the Old Country for precious metals, and for lead and tin mining, in the opinion of Professor William Frecheville, formerly Professor of Mining at the Royal School of Mines, South Kensington, England. He arrived here on the liner Empress of Russia Monday.

Mr. Frecheville, who is a past president of the Institution of Mining and Metallurgy, is a well known authority on mining, and conducted investigations into the West Australian and Canadian fields.

He has visited Australia and the Orient in the course of the present tour, and says while there is far less activity in gold production as compared with the banner year when he knew the country, and when Kalgoorlie was at the peak of its brilliant rise as a great gold camp, still he finds Australian mining making steady progress.

There is no demand in the eastern hemisphere for copper, hence the break in prices, compared with the banner years, and Mr. Frecheville thinks there is no expectation that the copper market will return to the years of 1918-19, especially as there has been a great advance in the cost of mining in every respect.

Mr. Frecheville, who resides at Ewhurst, Surrey, England, and is accompanied by his wife and daughter, inquired after several well known mining men in British Columbia whom he formerly knew in London.

FORESTRY DISPLAY FEATURE OF SHOW

Conveys Striking Lesson on Value of B.C. Forest Products

The message of the Provincial Forestry Department to prevent forest fires is being delivered effectively through the feature exhibition of the Provincial Fair at the Willows. The appealing display, described as an exhibition in itself, has been a magnet to hundreds of people since the fair opened, proving both a quiet resting place and an exhibit full of interest. It is entered through an avenue of trees and the atmosphere of the woods is strikingly created. The miniature railway working continuously, running water and lakes, sheep and cows in the realistic grazing section, bridges, automobiles, and trees all set out in perfect perspective are a credit to those in charge of the display.

The whole very aptly illustrates the value of B.C. forests, and cards displayed at different points drive home the lesson: "One dollar out of the forest, ten dollars in." Keep the wheels of industry moving comes from forest trees, reads one of the cards. "Others say, 'Ninety thousand acres of forest are grazed on Government ranges under the permit system 1923-24.' The Grazing Act provides for the improvement of Crown ranges by construction of stock trails, bridges, drifts, fences, improvement of mud holes, springs, etc. 'Have a wood lot carrying all the time by producing a Winter crop of poles and posts.' In connection with the exhibit there is a demonstration of forest products from the raw material to a moving picture every night, a film entitled "The Red Enemy," forest fires and a comedy.
